April 27-29, 2027 (tentative)

Dana Point

Human Resources Academy

The two-and-a-half-day Human Resources (HR) Academy is designed to address the challenges and responsibilities HR professionals face and equip them with the knowledge, techniques, and solutions they need. This academy delivers essential training for HR management and support staff, offering basic theory and practical techniques for everyday problem-solving. Discussions and sessions typically cover topics such as personnel rules, complaint investigations, innovative evaluation tools, and legal updates.

Registration is available only to members of the California JPIA. There is no cost to attend, and the Academy includes a three-night hotel stay, breakfast, lunch, and training materials.

Space is limited, and priority for attendance will be given as follows:

- First-time registrant for this academy or attended this academy more than three years ago
- Agency responsibilities approximate those of the intended academy audience
- Accompanied by no more than one other from the same agency
